gets busier.

The same pressures often keep him away from his wife, and their two children, Robin and Timothy, not to mention his favorite pastime, fishing.

And like most public figures

—but he wouldn't tell it.

This caution tends to create the false impression the 50-year-old premier is stuffy.

Mr. Robarts obviously enjoys meeting children and often stops at schools at short notice —but not without permission

Any programs announced since the campaign started were extensions of existing programs or projects under discussion for some time, he says. They would have been made public at this time even if the election hadn't been called.

Card Clan Gathers at Madoc; Traces Ancestry to UEL Family

By EVELYN PETERS
District Correspondent

VERONA — Belated arrangements for a general calling together of the Card clan were completed, when an early autumn pot-luck dinner for 125 was held at Crystal Beach near Madoc.

It was the first time in the memorable history of the prominent United Empire Loyalist family, who settled in the Moscow area north of Kingston, that an effort had been made to bring together everyone in the immediate area by the name of Card for a sorting out of relationships.

Originator of the almost impossible task, and self-appointed chairman of a committee of three was Everton Card of Verona and two interested helpers Minor Card of Bancroft and Edgerton Card of Snow Road.

Long lists of names were compiled from area telephone directories and over 50 private invitations to the gathering were sent out asking the receiver to pass the word along to any possible relative.

As was to be expected many came who were not quite sure just how close a relative they were, if any at all, for over a period of years a slight variation in the spelling of the name had become prominent.

However, before the day was over, ancestry lineage had been traced to the same UEL family who made history in their long trek from the U.S. to Canada.

Many found they still had much in common to talk about as they learned to what varying degrees they were following, but in a more modernized version, the old basic family traditional occupations of saw-mill builders and operators or threshers.

Although many were unable to attend because of previous plans, representatives bearing the Card name attended from Bancroft, Godfrey, Mountain Grove, Peterborough, Brockville, Perth, Snow Road, Palmer Rapids, Harrowsmith and Verona.

Plans are already under way for a more complete and interesting gathering of the Card family which is to be held on the third Sunday in July, 1968 at Crystal Beach.

away as Beirut came here. There was a rumor of a general strike on this day. Soldiers in red berets calmly walked the streets with their guns and sat around the fountain in the main square talking to the girls.

There was no strike. There were too many tourists and souvenir-happy Israeli soldiers in the streets and shops. In the end, economics is all. There may be complaints, but as a Jerusalem merchant said at a protest meeting after the last strike, "I must admit I couldn't complain like this under Hussein."

Flashlight Pens Necessary

NEW YORK — "Do I need any special equipment to be a theatre critic?" writes Nathan C. of Toronto.

Yes, Nathan, you do. It is essential to have a flashlight pen. This vital tool enables the critic to take notes without missing too much of the production in accidentally writing his notes on his cuff, his cape or his other hand.

I brought a flashlight pen with me to New York because the playwright too must sit in the audience and make notes during try-out performances. He could instead take an ordinary flashlight into the house with him, but I have found that the theatre-goers mistake him for an usher and turn ugly if he refuses to give them programs and show them to their seats. It can add up to a very tiring evening, for the author, and I also got into trouble with the theatre attendants' union.

Alternatively the playwright can hold a tape recorder on his lap, during the performance, and dictate notes to that I tried it once, but is disturbed the people sitting around me to hear muttered comments like "Move that footstool" and "Kill that bloody worklight!" An umbrella brought down over your head affects the quality of the recording.

The flashlight pen eliminates these hazed in visiting the 1000 Islands Skydeck on Hill Island. Could you please tell us something about it, and also, the International Export Shop? — Miss Benn, Kingston.

ANSWER: The 1000 Islands Skydeck located between the spans of the 1000 Island Bridge on Hill Island, is Ontario's newest and most spectacular tourist attraction. The Skydeck 400 feet above the St. Lawrence River is reached by express elevator. From this vantage point you can see a dis-would like to know if you have information on an Antique Auto Museum in that state?

ANSWER: There is a place called the Museum of Antique Autos which claims to have the world's largest collection of its kind. This is on route No. 31, 30 miles north of Sturbridge, Mass. There are over 200 automobiles all well preserved and in running condition. Open to September 15 and then opened again October 1 to November 30th. Admission 50 cents.

part E anti-clockwise to remove it."

I have the feeling I shall never change the ink refill. I just hope the supply holds out in the original refill.

The cast of the play do not, I think, share this hope. During rehearsals my note-taking, signalled by the little light going on in the orchestra, to them means that I am going to cut lines. And one thing an actor hates worse than hive swerve he can't scratch is to have one of his lines cut. He never assumes that the line is cut because it was no good in the first place. No matter how bad a line is, once he has learned it an actor believes that he can make it glow with such an effugence as never was on land or sea.

It is his adopted child. Misshapen and dull though it is, he has learned to love each line with the kind of devotion that is lavished only on what makes a role plumper. What an actor fears most is emancipation of the part, which is of course greater than the whole.

In these circumstances, when my little flashlight pen lights up in the darkness, a frisson of anguish passes over the stage. The fairy-like glimmer is a Tinkerbell in reverse — everyone in the cast wishes that her light would go out and stay out.

Verona Lady Guest Of Honor at Party

VERONA — A very happy birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Card. Mrs. Card, who has been a life-long resident of the community and who has reached her seventy-seventh anniversary was the guest of honor. There was a splendid turnout of neighbors and several of her immediate family. The afternoon was spent in a social manner and contests were held. Mrs. Card took part in the afternoon's program. The aged lady has been in delicate health for several years, but is much improved.

A feature of the party was the large number of beautiful and appropriate presents which literally covered the dining room table and which were very feelingly acknowledged by the recipient. A lunch was prepared and served by Mrs. Card's daughters and included a handsome birthday cake which bore the inscription "Mother." "Mother."

Mr. and Mrs. Card retired from their farm a number of years ago.

Church convened at the home of Mrs. Orville McCormick and presented Mrs. Bruce Storms with a silver casserole. The address was read by Mrs. Lorne Williams, president of the society and the presentation was made by Mrs. Hyland.

Mrs. Storms, who was always ready to assist the society whenever called upon, in a few words expressed her appreciation for the lovely gift.

Mrs. McCormick delighted all with piano numbers and after the meeting had closed the social period was enjoyed when refreshments were served.

Hallowe'en Parties

The teachers and pupils of the various schools in the Camden East district arranged Hallowe'en parties in the schools. There were decorations of black cats, witches, etc. The programs consisted of recitations, songs and readings and the refreshments consisted of cake, sandwiches and candy.

Personals

Mrs. John Shane spent the past week in Napanee the guest of Mrs. James Shane.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartman and family of Ardoch have moved into the store residence recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Storms who have returned to their farm at Harrow-smith. Mr. Hartman recently purchased the business from Mr. Storms.

Mellow Sentenced to Serve Four Years in Penitentiary

Municipalities Negligent Magistrate Says

Magistrate E. J. Butler, in the Napanee Police Court, last Thursday, sentenced Merton H. Mellow to serve four years in Portsmouth Penitentiary for the theft of nearly $15,000 from the municipalities of Amherst Island and Bath, during a period of seven years, when he was tax collector for the two places.

Mr. Mellow pleaded guilty a week previously to the theft of over $10,000 from Amherst Island and over $4,000 from Bath, the two amounts totalling $14,952. On the charges in connection with Amherst Island he was sentenced to serve four years and on the Bath charges three years, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Before delivering sentence the Magistrate said:

"In this case the accused was charged with misappropriation of money belonging to the Township of Amherst Island and the Village of Bath. The action of the accused has been going on for a number of years, and apparently a large misappropriation of monies was made by the accused. The total is considerably over $14,000. Were I to deal with the charges separately the penalty would be extraordinary. As the penalty for a single offence of this nature might be fourteen years in the Penitentiary, I prefer to deal with the cases during the years that the accused was tax collector for the two municipalities and misappropriated funds as stated.

"The counsel for the accused has argued very ably on his behalf. What he states, as the attitude of the two municipalities is quite in order, but, though these municipalities have been extremely neglectful, this does not excuse the crime. This man was acting in his official position as tax collector and the municipalities were entitled to place confidence in him and to expect upright and honest treatment. They did not receive it. It is a case of an unpleasant nature for me, but the duty involved upon me is such that I must enforce the law; and it is a sad case to see a respectable family placed in such a disgraceful and humiliating position. However, the responsibility rests entirely on the accused and there is nothing for me to do but mete out the punishment of such a crime. I therefore sentence you for the offence against the Municipality of Amherst Island to four years in the Provincial Penitentiary at Portsmouth, near Kingston; for the offence against the Village of Bath, to three years in the same institution, to run concurrently with the Amherst Island sentence."

Mother's Day Services at United Churches

Mother's Day was observed in special combined services of the Sunday Schools and the churches in Grace and Trinity Churches last Sunday. There was perfect weather the whole day and large crowds attended the service.

In Grace United Church the Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Fred. L. Hooper, had charge of the program, and was assisted by the Assistant Superintendent, G. F. Smith, and Mr. A. MacGregor. Dr. R. T. Richards, the minister, told a children's story in place of giving the usual address, and Miss Hazel VanAlstyne also told a story.

Besides the anthem by the choir, two solos were sung by members of the Primary Department, Sylvia Follis and Jack Blakely, and four young girls, Phyllis Richardson, Rowena Smith, Mary Elliott and Miriam Richards, sang a quartette.

The printed program was followed and at the close of the service Dr. Richards baptized two young children.

SERVICE AT TRINITY

At Trinity United Church the Superintendent of the Sunday School, E. C. Hogarth, and the assistant, Carsen Johnson, conducted the service, in which the minister, Rev. H. E. Wellwood, led in prayer and gave a short address. The ladies of the choir sang Gounod's "Ave Maria", and following the offertory the Primary Department sang a song. The story, "The Golden Room," was told by Mae Smith.

He Knew It!

Agent: "Sir, I have something here which will make you popular, make your life happier, and bring you a host of new friends."

Student: "I'll take a quart."
